

Escape and Evasion

Two Teams, HUNTERS and RUNNERS, One Winner...

Your group is split into two teams, HUNTERS and RUNNERS, with roles reversed after lunch. Can you operate 'behind enemy lines' and evade capture? Can you co-ordinate an effective search using motorised hunter forces? Can your team communicate effectively to achieve success?

Hunters ...

Their task is to hunt down the RUNNERS. All team members have a turn in each of the three roles which consist of;

- HQ where the team use maps, radios and a powerful CCTV system to find the enemy
- Land Rover QRF (Quick Reaction Force) armed with Pulse Ranger infra red guns
- Scouts who patrol in rally karts and report back any sightings.

Runners ...

Their task is to evade the HUNTER force, carry out secret assignments and team challenges and piece together their winning formula as they move around behind enemy lines!

With problem solving, some active tasks, and unusual activities, the session is great for bringing people together. There is some physical element to the day as part of the 'runners' although the HQ role mainly requires organisation skills and the use of a radio.

This 'Spy Experience' is especially relevant to assist the team in improving; communication skills, team work and leadership and delegation.
